Freedom Bells Will Ring Here On Independence Day

The Everglades Association of Life Underwriters is compiling a list of all the bells in the Glades area and contacting persons in charge to see that all bells are rung in celebration of our Independence on July 4th, 1966. The bells will begin ringing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will ring for four minutes.

An article, "The Joyous Sound of Freedom" in the June issue of Reader's Digest tells that Eric Sloane, a writer on early American crafts and customs, found, in doing research that for the first hundred years of our nation's life the ringing of the bells was the standard way of celebrating Independence Day. Precursors became popular after the Civil War and drowned out the more profound sounds of bells.

Sloane suggested his idea to a friend who was in radio and the ringing of bells has progressed to an estimated 20,000 towns and cities. From churches, schools, firehouses and factories, the bells will sound our freedom. Radio stations will broadcast the sounds of bells.

The time set for the pealing of the bells across the nation is 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, because this is about the time the Continental Congress in Philadelphia concluded their Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, and Sloan asks, "Isn't it logical to assume that at that moment the Liberty Bell pealed the news to all the citizens of Philadelphia?"

In 1963 the enthusiasm for the ringing of the bells was so great that congressmen sponsored a resolution, state legislatures approved the idea, and some 200 governors issued proclamations. President Kennedy added his personal endorsement. More bells are ringing each year across the nation as more civic groups and interested citizens keep the ball rolling.

The Everglades Association of Life Underwriters is finding that ministers and other ringers of bells are responding with enthusiasm when they are approached with the idea. If anyone knows of bells in any unusual place that could be rung, please contact Carl Waggoner or Arthur Wells of the Life Underwriters, or just see that the bell is rung for four minutes beginning at 2 p. m. on July 4th.

Glades General Hospital Accredited By Joint Commission

"Glades General Hospital has achieved what is considered by people in the hospital and health field to be the single most important certification of the quality of patient care rendered—accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals," stated Ben Clarke, Hospital Administrator. The letter of notification, dated June 15, 1966, culminated many months of preparation and hard work by both the hospital personnel and the Medical Staff.

The Joint Commission, organized in 1952, is composed of three members from each of the American College of Surgeons and the American College of Physicians; eight from the American Hospital Association; seven from the American Medical Association; and one each from the American Association of Homes for the Aged and the National Nursing Home Association. The stated purpose of the Joint Commission is to conduct an inspection and accreditation program which will encourage physicians and hospitals voluntarily to apply certain basic principles of organization and administration for efficient care of the patient; (2) to promote high quality of medical and hospital care in all its aspects in order to give patients the greatest benefits that medical science has to offer; and (3) to maintain the essential diagnostic and therapeutic services in the hospital through coordinated effort of the organized medical staff and the governing board of the hospital. To establish standards for hospital operation; to recognize compliance with standards by issuance of certificates of accreditation; and to assume such other responsibilities and to conduct other activities as are compatible with the operation of a hospital accreditation program.

The survey of the hospital, conducted in April, is a voluntary part of the part of the hospital and while there are numerous criteria which must be met, there is a great deal of implementation which must take place before the survey will recommend accreditation to the Joint Commission. Clarke continued, "and this badge of distinction which is won by only about half of the hospitals in the country states to the general public that quality medical care is given at Glades General Hospital and also that there is a continuing effort to always strive for even better results."

"Our Medical Staff," Clarke concluded, "is certainly to be congratulated since approximately 75-80 percent of the program concerns itself with the Medical Staff and the quality of medical care which they render."

Sugar Grower Problems, Pay Increases Discussed In Day-long ASC Session

Last Friday meeting of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of the United States Department of Agriculture held at the Holiday Inn in Belle Glade was marked by a vast increased effort on the part of labor unions to up sugar wages.

The meeting attended throughout the day by about 100 persons saw some twenty of them testify before a three man committee from the USDA chairmaned by Charles F. Denny with William Alverine and the Earle Gavette as members. Two labor leaders present, Nick Zonovich, AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department Organizational Director and Thomas Vincent, District 7, Director of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers recommended a 60 percent increase in wages from the present $1.25 to $2.00 an hour minimum.

The majority of the growers urged that the present $1.25 per hour rate be continued although one grower recommended a roll back to $1.00 per hour. Fred Sikes personnel manager for the U. S. Sugar Corporation pointed out, that recent increases in wages to sugar workers had fully been absorbed by the growers and that the employers no longer be required to absorb these increases.

Growers in general claimed that piece rates raised the workers' wages considerably above the minimum, and that they cannot pay higher wages without getting into a economic squeeze that would force many of them out of the business. It was reported by one grower that four of his organizational growers had been forced out of the sugar industry by this squeeze on profits during the last two years. Apparently the Secretary of Agriculture Mr. Freeman gives no consideration to the wide range of prices paid for sugar land over the years in this area. Newer companies recently engaging in the sugar cane business have paid quite a premium for their land.

The committee functions as a fact finding group to seek the information necessary for the USDA to establish a fair price for the sugar growers to receive for the raw sugar they produce and the basic minimum wages sugar cane workers will receive for their labor. This sugar act as amended was passed in 1948 and requires that these hearings be held annually.

Growers Joe Tom Boynton and Sam Senter, along with others, pointed out how much production costs have risen — some thirty percent over the past three years, while prices have declined. Sikes said: "Sugar wages are fair and reasonable by Secretary Freeman's own definition."

It is difficult to see how one can continue to rise without bringing a crisis to an industry that has meant so much to the economy of the Glades.

Multi-Nation Team Visits Glades Area

A thirty-nine man team from six countries concluded a two day seminar on fertilizer technology in the Glades area. Participants from Brazil, India, Kenya, Turkey, UAR and Venezuela arrived in Washington, D. C. on March 9th. In addition to briefings in the capitol city, the group have visited North Carolina State University, Raleigh, North Carolina and the Tennessee Valley Authority, Muscle Shoals, Alabama. The team arrived at the University of Florida, Gainesville, on June 13, and will leave the state June 25. Harry Wise, University of Florida contact officer for the Agency of International Development was over-all director of the Florida tour. July 2nd will see members of the team heading for their respective homes.

On Tuesday, the economics group met in the auditorium of The Glades office Building where Dr. William T. Forsee, chemist in charge of the Everglades Experiment Station, Dr. Richard Iley, Dr. Howard Burdine and Dr. Frank Thomas spoke on Flood Control and planting requirements in the Glades Area.

On Wednesday, the group joined a conducted tour headed by John Causey, Associate County Agent. The tour included first hand observation of Glades water control facilities, seed beds and the growing of sugar cane with a stop at the USDA Sugar Cane Breeding Station, Canal Point where Dr. Leo P. Hebert, superintendent of the station, conducted a field trip. Mrs. D. Metys and Yuce Aydinler were Turkish interpreters for the group

November Is Too Late

When you mark your ballot in your polling booth this November, it is a little late to evaluate the issues and candidates you are called upon to support or reject. Now is the time for every eligible voter to gather information and discuss with others the issues and their effect on the people, the community and the nation. Now is the time to take an interest in public affairs and support those candidates and measures that appear to offer the best long run solutions to the problems before us.

The United States plays a central role in a world of unprecedented change. This fall every voter will be expressing his opinion of policies and proposals that involve war or peace, authority or freedom, national solvency or bankruptcy. An active and informed electorate is more vital than at any other time in our history to the future of a free society under representative government.

Stockholders Should Wake Up!

The people are the stockholders in the greatest corporation in the world, the U. S. government. Just as in a business corporation, they elect the officers and directors of the "company." If the officers of our government corporation spend its money faster than income and good business practice warrant, it is up to the stockholders (voters) to express their views at annual meetings (elections).

If they don't do this, and if they accept constantly greater dividends (gifts) than the corporation's income can stand, they are headed for trouble. In the case of government, that means assessments (increased taxes) for every stockholder (citizen)—or economy to bring the operating costs of the corporation within its income.

The stockholders in the U. S. government corporation have a choice—they can instruct their hired officers and directors to cut expenses to income, or they can pay higher taxes.

The result of rising public debt, waste and demands from voters for handouts is inflation. The stockholder voters are getting a taste of inflation. But they have seen nothing yet, unless they curb their own demands and those of their elected officers and directors. They still have free elections and the right to vote and express their wishes.

BUREAUCRATS' WAY

The superintendent of the school district in the little city of Beaverton, Oregon, is having troubles—troubles which are not of his own or his community's making. They are troubles which are shared by innumerable other such districts the country over. They have to do with the masses of red tape involved in federal aid to education.

Specifically, in this superintendent's view, "the requirements are completely unreasonable" in applying for funds under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. As an example it is demanded that each and every one of the books of the district's libraries be inventoried. He says of this, "All the information they need they could be given on one piece of paper."

News accounts report that the Beaverton School Board unanimously supports the superintendent and fears that federal aid is turning into federal control. The sad fact is that it would be remarkable if it didn't. The old adage still applies: He who pays the piper calls the tune. And the demands made on local bodies inevitably grow ever larger. This is the bureaucrats' way of showing that they must have more funds, more staff, more authority. So, little by little, local and individual responsibility, local determination to forge ahead, and local rights and liberties, are whittled away. Nothing is sharper than the knife of the bureaucrat.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was just thinking last week, reading the automobile ads in a slick magazine, that we got the smartest people on earth. Take these engineers that design cars. They'll come out with a model that is the very last word in everything. Folks buy it, and in six months they've produced another model that makes the old one anywhere from 5 to 10 years out of date.

I reckon, though, that everything this day and time is perishable fast. They say news is the most perishable thing on earth, and even in this country they manufacture a heap of news, especial from Washington, afore it happens to keep it from spoiling.

From Allen Fretz, Salford, Penna.: I remember the old days of canal boating. We lived in a small village called Irvina, on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware River.

At this point the canal runs close and parallel with the river. In those days, it was a busy waterway between the coal region and Philadelphia. I would spend all summer along the canal, watching the boats go through the locks. It was the most fascinating time of my life.

The lock had two gates, far enough apart for a coal boat. Going downstream, they would open the upper gate slowly and let the lock fill with water. The boat would be drifted in and the upper gate closed. Then, they would open the lower gate slowly and let the water and the boat down to the lower level. The locks worked in similar manner by three or four miles. The miles walked the low water, and the miles walked the low water, and the miles walked the low water.

Sometimes had to operate the boat rudder to keep the boat in mid-stream. The men who operated the boats were often unskilled and untidy. Every time they tied up the boat and went to a hotel, they would get into fights.

This newspaper reaches more homes in this community than any other publication in the world...

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

TO ALL LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS

LAW ENFORCEMENT TODAY is being degraded, purposely in many instances, by the widespread and indiscriminate use of the term "police brutality."

This practice is called a guilt-by-language process by some individuals. They may be right. For example, the word "juvenile" has been associated with "delinquency" so often and so long that now, when used alone, it has a disagreeable connotation to much of the public.

"Police brutality" conjures up visions of hulking men in uniform clubbing and beating innocent people. Rarely, however, does the term fit the circumstances to which it is applied. It is used in wild accounts of enforcement officers' lifting limp demonstrators who block busy thoroughfares, in references to oral commands by policemen who disperse potential troublemakers, in depicting efforts by officers to halt violations of the law, and in describing any number of other sworn duties performed by policemen.

We know there is a calculated and deliberate attempt by some groups to inflame hostility against law enforcement by charging "police brutality" without cause. To a large degree they have succeeded. The term is bandied about in all media of communication without serious consideration as to its true meaning or its harmful effect on a profession which is charged with enforcing the basic rules of civilized living.

I agree with a growing number of responsible news editors, public officials, and law-abiding citizens that it is high time to get this "pet slogan" into a better perspective. We do not deny there have been instances of misuse of force by enforcement officers, but such incidents are not as prevalent as the public has been led to believe. A general and accepted principle of the law has been that an officer may use such force as is necessary to make lawful arrests, protect his life, and perform other specific duties. Frequently, however, the choice is not his to make; he HAS to use force or be maimed or killed and have the rights of all the people trampled by those who have no respect for law or due process. Even then, his best efforts often are not enough, as evidenced by the appalling number of officers assaulted and killed each year.

Policemen have the same basic rights as others. There is no reason why they should be singled out for ridicule by invalid blanket accusations. The public, the press, and law enforcement itself should launch a concerted drive to stop the semantic indictment of police. Allegations and incidents should be reported and described in realistic, impartial, and truthful terms. If an officer is assaulted while making an arrest and uses undue force to subdue the person, then call it "undue force." If an officer uses profane language to a citizen, then describe it as profane language. If an officer is thought to be biased or prejudiced in his treatment of groups or individuals, then the complaint should so state. But the constant cry of "police brutality" as a catch phrase, exploited and used as camouflage for illegal conduct, is dead wrong. It is a stigmatization of police by rote.

JOHN EDGAR HOOVER, Director.

Tribute to Luther Jones was paid by J. W. Gerretson, District Director of Selective Service, who was a frequent visitor in Belle Glade.

"In the six years that I have worked closely with Luther Jones, chairman of Local Board No. 148, I have learned to both respect and love him.

This poem "fits" more appropriately now than at any other time I have used it in the past 40-45 years."

To The Unseen Shore

"Sometime at even when the tide is low, I will slip my moorings and sail away.
With no response to the friendly hail of the kindred craft in the busy bay.
In the silent hush of the twilight pale, when the night stoops down to embrace the day, and the voices call in the water's flow; Sometime at even when the tide is low, I will slip my moorings and sail away.
Through the purple shadows that darkly trail o'er the ebbing tide of the unknown sea, I will fare me away with the dip of the sail, and the ripple of water to tell the tale, of a lonely voyager sailing away, To the mystic isles where at anchor lay the crews of those who have sailed before; O'er the unknown sea to the unseen shore.

A few who have watched me sail away, will miss my craft from the busy bay, Some friendly barks that were anchored near, some loving friends that my heart held dear, in silent sorrow will shed a tear; But I shall have peacefully furled my sail, in morning sheltered from storm and gale, and have greeted the friends who have sailed before, O'er the unknown sea to the unseen shore."

The Ultreya Held Here Hugs Success

A total of 210 Curullistas attended the celebration of an "ULTREYA" by the Curullistas of Belle Glade and Pahokee, accompanied by the invited Curullistas of Clewiston, Miami and Orlando, at St. Philip Beniz Parish Hall.

An "Ultreya" is a special celebration of the Curullistas as an expression of joy and thanksgiving for their faith and gathering of strength to go ahead in their apostolic work, carried on in an atmosphere of love and brotherhood.

After Mass and supper there was an enjoyable hour in which talent was displayed by both lay and clergy. Gustave Nordell was praised for his fine job in cooking the supper and is indeed a skilled "Chef de Cuisine."

O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majesty. —Psalm 104:1

HE greatness of God defies man's ability to comprehend it. We stand in awe before the power that controls the universe.

It is a disturbing picture, partly because the observers seem to be looking without concern at what they consider an ordinary death because they see nothing of eternal significance in it. Even more disturbing is the size of Christ's figure. His legs stretch across the canvas. It is obvious that this body is much too large for the cross behind it.

I wonder if the painter meant to illustrate the greatness of God. To me this picture suggests, just that. Though the cross is the symbol of Christ's supreme sacrifice for the redemption of all mankind, He is, indeed, greater than the cross.

PRAYER: Our Father, open our minds to Thy greatness. Open our hearts to accept Thy love. Strengthen us with the power of Thy spirit that we may be worthy to love and serve Thee. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Florida SALUTES ITS ATTRACTIONS

June is Florida Attractions Month and the Sunshine State beckons visitors to enjoy the best and most varied entertainment in the nation.

Florida's attractions are so varied they include everything in the entertainment dictionary, from aquariums to zoos.

Some attractions are purely for fun and are designed only to give those who visit them pleasurable, memorable experiences. Others, including a number of outstanding museums, emphasize education. And a great many, probably a majority, combine educational benefits with entertainment.

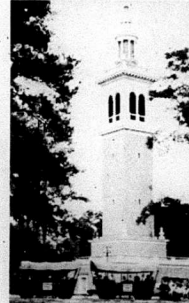

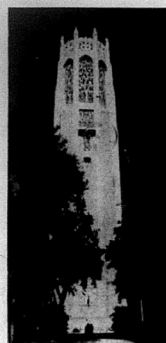

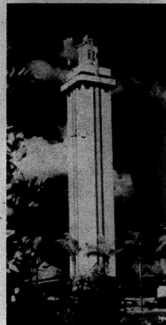

Some attractions can only be described as spectacular. One in central Florida, for instance, offers some of the most exciting water ski shows to be found anywhere. At another, gorgeous mermaids perform ballet and offer other entertainment in a dramatic underwater show.

Exotic gardens are scattered throughout the state, especially in the Central and Southern regions. For instance, one of these on the lower West Coast has hundreds of wild birds and more than 4,000 varieties of flowering shrubs, tropical plants and unusual trees. Another offers more than 2,000 wildlife specimens, including Everglades panthers, alligators, and American crocodiles. And still another has a trained duck vaudeville act.

The leap of the porpoise — the silent beauty of gardens in full bloom — the graceful flow of crystal clear springs — the cooing and cawing and whistling of exotic birds — the grunt of the alligator — the roar of an engine and the slap-slap-swish of water skis — these are the sights and sounds of Florida attractions.

Florida's numerous attractions are another reason Governor Haydon Burns and the Florida Development Commission are urging Sunshine State residents to see Florida This Summer.

Army Engineers Lower Lake Okeechobee Following Hurricane Alma's Visit

Hurricane Alma's side-swept of the Florida Gulf coast Wednesday night brought widespread rainfall over the 15,500-square-mile Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project and necessitated the opening of control gates on Lake Okeechobee to reduce the water level of the giant lake to safe capacity.

St. Lucie Lock was partially opened by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers Thursday morning (June 9) to release 3,000 cubic feet of water per second into the Atlantic Ocean to help lower the level of Lake Okeechobee. The release of water to the ocean, augmenting water already flowing from the lake to the Gulf via the Caloosahatchee River, was started only after all three water conservation storage areas were filled and the maximum water possible was flowing into Everglades National Park. All gates in the four water control structures within Conservation Area 3 of the flood control project and the park were wide open.

Rainfall over Central Florida as a result of the hurricane was relatively light as the eye of the storm skirted offshore along the peninsula west coast. However, the level of Lake Okeechobee was continuing to rise as water funneled into the 730-square-mile lake from the Orlando-Kissimmee area via the Kissimmee River. District Engineer Col R. P. Tabb said the decision was made to start releasing a relatively small amount of water from Lake Okeechobee via the St. Lucie River since the lake is currently above the safe regulation stage for this time of year and the long-range weather forecast calls for above-normal rainfall during the next 30 days.

The water being released through the St. Lucie River is non-eroding and should not cause any severe problems," Colonel Tabb said. He also pointed out that the Fish and Wildlife Service has indicated that a nominal amount of freshwater from Lake Okeechobee during certain periods of the year is beneficial to fish in the St. Lucie Estuary. The quantities being released into the St. Lucie fall within this minimum quantity.

The district engineer said "Conservation Area 3 which was completed four years ago, is at water regulation stage for the first time since it was completed."

The giant water conservation area immediately north of Everglades Park was completed during a So. Florida drought which kept the 730-square-mile conservation area virtually dry until last year when a hurricane ushered in rainfall which has helped bring the conservation area up to regulation stage.

The three conservation areas conserve water during times of plentiful rainfall for use during dry periods. The populous east coast underderground water supply is recharged by the three shallow water conservation areas.

In addition, the higher water in the conservation areas results in Everglades Park getting greater quantities of water from Lake Okeechobee.

Rainfall over Everglades Park in the hurricane was pretty widespread, according to reports from the Park. During the first six days of June, 2 to 6 inches of rain fell on the park and the hurricane brought greater quantities. In addition, the park is also receiving water from the conservation areas to the north.

Army Engineers also have awarded a $780,750 contract to enlarge canals within the conservation areas to bring more water to the park, which suffered drought conditions along with all of South Florida during a four year period ending last summer. When the canals are enlarged, greater quantities of water can be funneled into the park.

Flood damage from Hurricane Alma didn't materialize to any great extent, but Army Engineers pointed out that had the tropical storm crossed the state from west to east, the flood control project would have prevented many millions of dollars in flood damages. In preparation for the storm, Army Engineers and the State Flood Control District had men on 24-hour-day duty at hurricane gates, pump stations and water control structures to spring into action should the need arise.

The $380 million flood control project is only 50 per cent completed but it offered a high degree of flood protection to the 18 counties in Central and South Florida.

Completed the flood control project will virtually eliminate all flooding.

The project was designed and constructed following the hurricane death of more than 2,000 people in Lake Okeechobee in 1928 and succeeding heavy rainfall years in the late 1940s.

Our City Departmental Reports Indicate Increased Tempo In Recreation

The regular monthly reports by city departments show a slight decrease in valuations and fees from the Building Inspection Department for the first five months of 1966 as compared to the first five months of 1965. 1965 figures show some $1,302,773.00 in permits as to 1966 $1,019,496. or a decrease of $283,277.00. Three new home permits, with a valuation of $82,998, were issued during May.

Of interest is the increase activity at the marina with camping fees bringing in a total of $769.50 for the month and golfing play amounting to $978.50. Some 1273 golfers registered to play during the month. Work is proceeding on the additional camping sites next to the present marina which will accommodate over double the present facilities. With the completion of this new addition Belle Glade will become the major outdoor camping site for South Florida.

Boaters . . . Heed Speed Zones

Land Lubbers may not be aware that the area from the Hurricane Gates on the east side of the Rm Canal to approximately 100 yards north of the bridge is a POSTED speed zone and has been so for several years according to Gordon Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp.

A five mile an hour speed limit is enforced in these waters to protect swimmers, skiers and boating enthusiasts. Recently a complaint was filed with the Sheriff's Office concerning an infraction of the posted speed. The offender was sternly warned.

With summer vacation upon us and the Fourth of July holiday not far away, it would be well for all boaters to be especially careful in congested areas. Boat owners are also reminded that all boats must bear the new 1967 decal and have registrations renewed by July 1st. Renewals may be made at the office of the Tax Collector, according to Deputy Collector Mrs. Edwina Young. While there has been some activity since June 1st when the new registrations were available, the tempo will pick up considerably, and boat owners are reminded to come in early, she said.

Physical Fitness Day Held At Mc Donald City Park

JUNE 23, 1966 THE HERALD, Belle Glade, Fla. Page 7

SIT-UPS . . . PULL-UPS . . . are taught the group by year-round Park Supervisor Mrs. Geraldine Robinson.

145 Participants Registered Early

To most people, a physical fitness test is a one time a year affair. "They sweat, groan, and ache," Paul Emery, Summer Recreation Supervisor said, "then wait until another year passes." Unfortunately this is becoming the average American's attitude toward staying fit, he said. Fit for what? "Certainly all of us won't become star athletes, but we will have to wash the car, play with the kids, keep house, and earn a living. To do all these ordinary (by no means easy some times) chores, requires that we be in fairly good shape . . . particularly to do them well.

The Physical fitness program is expected to instill in the young people the proper attitude towards main-

When selecting furniture, have one style dominate and accent with other styles. Modern furniture is popular because its simplified styling, comfort and construction are based on present-day needs. Furniture reproductions retain their classic styles, but have been scaled to the proportions of the average size room to add beauty and balance.

SOME PARTICIPANTS of the 145 children registered for the Physical Fitness activities.

Cub Scouts Enjoy Turtle Watch

Cub Scouts of Pack #22 and their families enjoyed a wienner roast with all the trimmings Friday night at the Public Beach just north of Juno.

After eating, Florida Board of Conservation officer, R. M. Rider, told the Cub Scouts about the large sea turtles. He said the loggerhead turtle was the one most common in this area but occasionally a green turtle was seen. After a question-answer session with the Scouts and their families, officer Rider went looking for a turtle. About 10:00 o'clock he returned to say he had one spotted on the beach. Everyone hurried down the beach to the spot and watched a large loggerhead lay her eggs, cover them, and struggle back into the water. The process took about an hour.

Officer Rider did a good job answering questions and pointing out interesting things about the turtles. Everyone attending enjoyed the evening very much.

Twelve civic, public and private organizations are co-sponsoring the ceremonies. John T. Perry, who donated funds and facilities for construction of the Hydro-Lab, will officially transfer it to Professor Charles Stephan, chairman of the FAU Department of Ocean Engineering.

Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, FAU president, will preside at the dockside event. Among the speakers will be Captain George F. Bond, father of the Navy's Sealab and saturation diving programs, and Capt. R. M. Pitts, director of civilian participation in the hunt for the H-bomb off the coast of Spain.

Following the Friday, July 1 ceremonies, the faculty of the department of ocean engineering will begin outfitting the Hydro-Lab, ready for its submergence in the Gulf Stream, off the Palm Beach coast. Equipment for life support and for experimentation will be installed.

Several professors and students will be able to remain submerged to conduct experiments for extended periods of time.

Dry entry and exit to the Hydro-Lab will be made by use of the Perry Cubmarine, which Perry is making available to the University for its underwater work. A bed of concrete piles has already been prepared and placed for the Hydro-Lab to rest on. The classroom will be towed to the site by Perry's research vessel, the Sea Hunter.

The newest Perry Link Cubmarine, the PLCA, will also be shown publicly for the first time on July 1 and Perry Submarine Builders Inc. will dedicate its new ocean engineering and manufacturing plant. The PLCA is a four-man miniature sub which will be produced for military and commercial use.

Mechanical Harvesters For Cabbage, Celery Will Eliminate Demands For "Stoop" Labor

At last, celery growers can rejoice, the work on a mechanical celery harvester by the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station is now nearing completion. W. W. Dean, assistant in Agricultural Engineering, announced the news during the opening session of the 13th annual Florida Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers meeting at the Colonial Inn recently in St. Petersburg Beach. The machine that cuts & tops celery stalks, the work of 20 laborers, has been in development for two years. Growers are happy about the machine because of the U. S. Labor Department's shutdown on off shore labor last year.

Dean was one of three University of Florida scientists working on the experimental machine which eliminates the most demanding of laborers performed in celery harvesting, the "stoop" labor. The other men instrumental in the development of the harvester are Dr. J. F. Beeman, agricultural engineer, and Lawrence H. Halsey, horticulturist with the Experiment Stations.

He explained that besides reducing labor, the machine could also be worked into a system for harvesting and handling fresh celery.

The celery crop represented nearly $19 million in Florida's farm income in 1965. He said that mechanical handling depends to a large extent on the plant's ability to resist damage to dropping. Studies indicated that less than 17 per cent of the plants showed damage. In most cases, the damage was less than that from normal hand cutting.

Dean also announced that work is progressing on an experimental cabbage harvester, another product of the same three researchers. Field tests were made this spring on the one-row, non-selective harvester.

The celery harvester was tested in Gainesville and Belle Glade. The cabbage harvester was also tested in Hastings.

Agricultural Engineers Attend State Meeting

The 13th annual meeting of the Florida Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers was held in St. Petersburg Beach, June 9-11. Technical sessions were held Friday & Saturday morning, ending with a business session. A banquet was held for members and their wives on Friday night.

At the technical sessions papers were presented by engineers from Belle Glade. Mr. W. W. Dean of the Everglades Experiment Station presented a paper entitled "Progress in the Development of Celery and Cabbage Harvesters for Fresh Market." Mr. V. A. Boots and Stewart Boots reported on the "Design and Development of a Sweet Corn Harvester for Fresh Market."

Mr. Theron W. Casselman presented a paper entitled, "Electro-Static Drying." Other agricultural engineers attending from the Belle Glade area were Joe E. Clayton and Hiram D. Whittemore, USDA, Franklin Jones, U. S. Sugar Corporation, Dan Willis and Craig Boots, University of Florida, Mr. Mills H. Byrom, formerly of Belle Glade, was chairman of this group last year.

The Florida Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers now has 135 members and the National organization has approximately 6000 members.

Everglades Federal Becomes Scholarship Depository

Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association has been made an official depository of Scholarship Club Inc., according to an announcement by Mr. Richard Poston, President of the Association.

Scholarship Club Inc. is a non-profit organization founded for the purpose of providing financial means for Parents, Grandparents or other interested parties to send a child through college. The plan does not involve loans nor is it an insurance program. It does involve a savings program carried on for a specified number of months.

Children under 8 years of age are eligible for participation.

To institute the program the parent or sponsor pays a nominal enrollment fee which is the only out of pocket expenses connected with the plan. The fee covers the administration and trust fees for the life of the program. BY LAW, no other charges can be made. At the time of enrollment, the sponsor agrees to open a savings account in his name, the sponsor has full control of his account and may withdraw the savings at any time during the program or may use his savings as collateral for a loan should such become desirable.

The earnings from the savings account, like earnings from similar accounts of sponsors throughout Florida, are paid to the Scholarship Club Trust Fund. The Tallahassee Bank and Trust Co. of Tallahassee.

see and the Marine Bank and Trust Co. of Tampa will control the Trust Fund, and by State legislation, these funds can be used for Scholarships only.

This plan was made possible by special enabling legislation by the State of Florida. Where the plan has been in operation, public response has exceeded all expectations. The scholarship club is licensed and chartered by the State of Florida and is under the control of the State Treasurer.

Mr. Lee Gregory of Scholarship Club Inc., is the Parent Counsellor assigned to the Belle Glade-Palmetto area and will be working with Mrs. Taylor of Everglades Federal to aid all those interested in providing college educations thru

Neal Pennington Wins 4-H Award

The Junior Nature Camp will be held in Oklawaha, Fla., in Ocala National Forest from August 7 through 13.

Neal is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Pennington of Clewiston, Fla.

scholarships for their children. The board of directors for the Scholarship Club consists of 11 members. Seven are elected by the sponsors of children enrolled in the program and one is appointed by each of the following organizations.

Florida State Savings and Loan League, Florida Bankers Association, Florida Education Association and the Florida Parent - Teachers Association. Mr. Poston pointed out that approximately half of today's high school graduates who are adjudged capable of college work are unable to attend college because of financial inability. He said the firm's efforts in offering this plan "will be repaid many times if this great waste of talent and the tremendous disappointment suffered by many high school graduates can be lessened."

Scout Troop 601 Attending Summer Camp At Tanah-Keeta

Sixteen members of Boy Scout Troop 601 left Belle Glade Sun. for a busy and exciting week of Summer Camp at Camp Tanah-Keeta near Jupiter. This troop is sponsored by the Episcopal Church of Belle Glade. It is felt by the troop that this will be one of the best seasons in camp, due to the fact that old and new members in the group are about evenly divided which means that a great amount of individual attention will be available to the newer scouts by the more experienced.

Boaters - Check Your Life Saving Equipment

Florida boaters are reminded that ski belts are not acceptable lifesaving equipment. While ski belts are fine for skiers, if the skier gets into the boat, there must be an approved lifesaving device on board for each individual in the boat.

According to Brantley Goodson, Chief of Boat Enforcement, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, buoyant cushions are acceptable if the style and design of the cushion is U.S. Coast Guard approved.

"Lifesaving devices are completely useless if they are stored in a locker or tucked under a seat in case of emergency," emphasized Goodson.

Tag Sales Up Revenue Down

During the renewal period March 1, through May 31, 12,228 license tags were sold at the Glades office building according to Mrs. Edwina C. Young, Deputy Tax Collector to Statens O. Sprout. Of this number 11,594 were sold through May 20, deadline for driving 1966 tags.

Collected from these sales through the May 31, period was $445,957.30 with $444,610.27 accounting for sales through May 20. Of the 1962 titles processed there were 1727 reported through May 20, leaving 225 titles processed through the additional ten day period. Five hundred and one tax collections on vehicles sold were made by the May 20 tag expiration date and an additional 75 by the end of the month.

"This said, 'comparisons are odious,' and according to Mrs. Young, this is especially so this year. The renewal period ran for an additional month when extended by Governor Haydon Burns which made it difficult to compare the two years sales. Tag sales in 1965 started on February 1 and the approximately six weeks renewal period for that year is broken down as follows:

2-1 thru 3-20 — No. Tags Sold 10,622; Collected on Tag Sales, $420,229.21; No. Titles Processed 1349; No. Sales Tax Collected 332; Total Collected, $427,272.45.

Thru 3-31, 1965 — No. Tags Sold 11,148; Collected on Tag Sales $446,053.69; No. Titles Processed 1573; No. Sales Tax Collected 407; Total Collected $453,868.15.

Thru 4-30-1965 — No. Tags Sold 12,188; Collected on Tag Sales $473,387.85; No. Titles Processed 2083; No. Sales Tax Collected 537; Total Collected $484,278.92.

In addition collections were made for approximately 215 reserve tags for both years.

Office personnel was augmented from the three regular employees to a total of seven during the peak two weeks of sales, according to Mrs. Young.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell Kay
Considering the crazy weather patterns that have afflicted the country in the past year or so one might assume that Mother Nature has gone stark staring nuts and ought to be placed in a mental institution.

Hurricanes, ice, snow, tornadoes and excessive heat same time that Hurricane Alma occurred at the wrong time at the wrong time at the wrong time.

From coast to coast and border have the old weather apple cart not only upset but turned topsy-turvy. To the layman it doesn't make a bit of sense. We are inclined to blame it on everything from the atomic bomb to the war in Viet Nam. But scientists try to comfort us with assurance that it is all normal and natural and controlled by the cycles.

They tell us that the jet stream, that powerful upper air flow has changed its location. It marks the southern boundary of the polar air mass which expands when it is cool and contracts when it is warm.

The change of the jet stream they say is causing us to experience cooler summers and colder winters. It seems we are reaching the end of a warm cycle and can look forward to more severe winters and cooler summers for some time. The world is getting colder and wetter.

A century ago we emerged from the Little Ice Age and it has been getting milder most of the time since. Rising temperature rose four times as much in the Arctic as near the equator and has been rising all over the North Atlantic. The Arctic ice pack receded hundreds of miles.

Now the cycle is changing and we are entering a period of cooler weather that will be experienced in both Europe and America. Climatologists point to previous low temperature cycles in the following years, 1550, 1790 and 1812. For 30 years before 1790 it had been quite warm in Europe while lower temperature lagged behind in America.

Another period of cold ran from 1870 to 1910 in the United States.

Bruce Frick, writing in Science Digest, tells us that in the future, airline pilots, will have to fly further south to hitch a ride on the jet stream. Ship captains will have to watch out for icebergs that have almost vanished from the sea lanes to Europe. Birds and animals grow and sea temperatures drop. The growing season will become shorter and will be the ice-free season on the Great Lakes.

Finally the grandpas of tomorrow will have to learn a new time. Instead of boasting how cold the winters used to be, they will have to recall how hot the summers were.

Professor Hurd Willmet meteorologist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology contends that the colder, wetter weather will

Labor, Weather, Quota Cut-backs Hamper Sugar Production In Glades

Generally throughout the Glades, sugar production in 1966 did not equal records set last year. Spokesmen for the industry cite the freeze of January 1966, the cutback of 18.1 per cent on acreage ordered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and an exceptionally wet season which slowed operations at times, as well as the scarcity of off-shore cane cutters at the start of the season, as contributing to a smaller sugar season in 1966.

The sugar industry is not exactly new to Florida. The U. S. Sugar Company at Clewiston, and the Okeelanta Sugar Company at South Bay, have been in operation for a number of years. The Feltmeyer sugar operation has also been in Florida for a number of years.

However the sugar industry is relatively new to the Glades in some respects, chiefly in size and the impact of its larger size on the economy of the Glades. There are seven Glades sugar companies which are new businesses with very large investments, and three refineries.

The Evercane Sugar Company, Clewiston, the Glades County Sugar Growers Cooperative, Moore Haven, both manufacture pure granulated sugar ready for table consumption. In addition, the Florida Atlantic Sugar Refinery, Belle Glade, operates a sugar refinery. This latter company produces liquid sugar for businesses which use a sweener in their final manufactured product.

The off-shore laborer continues to be a necessary man to sugar cane producers. After the January 31 freeze, Secretary of Labor Wirtz permitted the employment of additional off-shore laborers as an emergency measure, which probably helped make the season as productive as it was. Efforts at mechanical harvesting of standing sugar cane are still very much in the experimental stage. Some sugar cane men maintain that the hand cane cutter will never be completely replaced by machinery in the Glades. A part of their reasoning is due to peculiarities of sugar cane growth in the Glades.

There are two major agencies for off-shore labor. The Florida Sugar Producers Association, with headquarters in Clewiston, and the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, with headquarters in Orlando. Both have staffs which devote a great deal of time to obtaining off-shore workers and domestic laborers for their members. Their efforts often require a great deal of time and money in negotiations with the U. S. Department of Labor and Island government officials.

An adequate labor supply is always a problem to the agricultural industry. When the farmer or grower needs laborers, he needs them immediately. A serious labor shortage in any one season will result in great financial loss, and require several "good" years to recoup losses sustained.

In both 1964-65, and 1965-66, approximately 15,000 laborers were needed in the Glades for sugar production alone, according to the Florida State Employment office. Of this number, 9,000 in 1964-65, and 8,500 in 1965-66, were off-shore laborers.

Help Eradicate Mosquitoes Around Home

In 1963 Congress appropriated 3 million dollars for an Aedes Aegypti Eradication Program for the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Programs are underway to eradicate the Aedes Aegypti mosquitoes in two-thirds of the counties in Florida.

Miss Todd says the real danger is in your own backyard. It is up to every homeowner to make sure that he is not breeding the mosquito in his home or around the premises. You can help in the eradication program by taking the following steps:

... Destroy all possible breeding places. Clean up all trash and tin cans, piles of junk, old tires, ... Fill holes or deep cracks of trees with sand, tar or concrete or other material which will prevent standing water after a rain. ... Keep bird baths washed out at least once a week.

... Keep your fish pond free of vegetation and stock it with minnows that eat mosquito larvae.

... Fit 18-inch mesh screens tightly over rain barrels or other large water containers.

... Get rid of standing water around your home.

... Use vermiculture, or to root plants indoors or outdoors. Vases in which house plants are grown are often breeding places of the yellow fever carrying mosquito.

REMEMBER: You can eradicate the Aedes Aegypti mosquito by cleaning up all possible breeding places around your home.

Urge your neighbors to do the same. For further information call your County Health Department or Extension Agents Office.

Make Your Plans Early For Florida Bear Hunt

The month of June may be a time for honeymoon and fishing trips, but it is not too early to plan a hunt trip, especially if your interest may be in hunting Florida's black bear. Pre-season bear hunts are held each year in the Apalachicola and Okechela National Forests beginning in September.

W. B. Copeland, chairman of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission said, "Twenty-eight bear hunts of three days each are scheduled for the two national forests beginning September 19 and continuing thru November 5. Hunters who wish to participate in the managed hunts should begin now to organize their hunting party as each hunt is limited to not more than 17 people, except upon approval of the hunt supervisor."

Each hunting party must make application for the managed hunts prior to August 26 and obtain a party permit. Each hunter in the party must also possess a regular hunting license.

Additional information concerning the bear hunt regulations and procedures governing the drawing may be obtained by contacting the Commissions office at Lake City for the Okechela hunt and the Commissions office at Panama City for the Apalachicola hunt.

Shading Orchids

Most orchids have to be grown in partial shade and it's best to shade the part of the house you intend using or else grow them in an area that you have already shaded for your foliage plants or African violets. Dendrobium phalaenopsis, Oncidium or Vanda will grow best in 20-30 percent of the normal outdoor light, says Dr. E. W. McElwaine, chairman of the Department of Ornamental Horticulture with Florida's Agricultural Experiment Stations.

He says, however, phalaenopsis needs only 10-15 per cent of normal light and only one type of shading is necessary.

For the deep south, it's best to apply a permanent shade to the house as the state's "high light intensities" during winter months require one to maintain the shade throughout the year.

Who Tricked Who?

(Continued From Page 1) That the Governor's answer was negative. Previously Scott Kelly had called on the Governor in High's behalf and had been rebuffed. It is very evident that the primary wounds will be slow in healing and the little mayor from Miami has his work cut out in order to entice some of Mr. Burns' voters to join High in November.
